U. S. BOMBERS SPREAD NEW DESTRUCTION

Hitler Puts Europe On Emergency Footing

HUNS SEEK TO UPSET TIMING FOR INVASION

Military Leaders Ordered To Forestall At All Costs Any Allied Stroke

JITTERS HEIGHTENING

May Day Taunts Hurlled By Patriots In Occupied Lands Of Continent

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, May 1—Adolf Hitler placed Nazi Europe on an emergency footing today in an effort to upset the Allied invasion timetable.

Ironclad orders went out to all German military leaders, from Field Marshal Erwin Rommel down, to forestall "at all costs" any Allied surprise strokes in the opening stage of the second front.

Throughout the week end, all Nazis resources were brought into play in an effort to ferret out secrets of "D-day." These included:

- 1—Persistent German "spy flights" over the English coast.
- 2—Extensive new German troop movements to Western Europe and Denmark.
- 3—Renewed Nazi threats of "diversionary" attacks in an obvious effort to obtain premature information on the Allied plans.
- 4—"Planted" speculation by the Nazi press and radio regarding the date of Allied assault, which now embraces the period from May 2 through May 17.

But Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, fully realizing the danger inherent in wagging tongues, has effectively stopped any likely leaks and has hidden the invasion armies under such an expert camouflage that even an England-wide "pea soup" fog couldn't have done better.

Consequently, according to best-informed opinion in Britain, the chances of catching Hitler off his guard in the powerful initial stroke are improving daily, despite the Nazis' super-vigilance. In contrast to four years ago, when Hitler had a vast fifth column lying in wait in France, he is now working in the dark, with fifth columns of another sort ready to fight him in every occupied land.

Residents of France were called on to mark the day by strikes against the Nazi oppressor and Czechoslovaks decreed merciless punishment to those Germans found guilty of war crimes.

Solons Map Bill To Curb FDR's Power

Senator's Action Prompted By Federal Seizure Of Mail Order House

WASHINGTON, May 1—A group of Republican senators began framing legislation today to curb the President's powers as a result of the Montgomery Ward and Company seizure but GOP leaders emphatically denied that a party issue will be precipitated.

"An effort will be made to develop legislation promptly but it remains to be seen what form it will take," said Sen. Vandenberg (R) Mich., chairman of the Republican conference.

Meantime, the senate judiciary committee was expected to receive a report from Sen. McCarran (D) Nev., chairman, on his action in instituting an investigation of legality of the President's seizure of the huge mail order house because of labor troubles.

The demand for investigation also was pressed in the house, with Speaker Sam Rayburn perhaps holding the key to the situation.

Rep. Sabath (D) Ill., chairman of the rules committee which approved a resolution for investigation over his protest, planned to consult with Rayburn on calling up the resolution for a vote. Sabath said the resolution cannot be taken up this week.

Administration leaders in the house may seek to forestall an investigation on the ground that the matter is in the courts. Some senate Democrats also opposed action for this reason.

Rep. Cox (D) Ga., declared, however, that steps would be taken to force house consideration of the resolution.

Republican senators held that the broad claim of power for the President, made by Attorney-General Francis Biddle, makes it necessary for congress to define the President's war powers.

"Nobody wants to interfere with the war effort," said Sen. Vandenberg, "but very few are able to (Continued on Page Two)

PLANE BUILDERS HEAR HOW WORK AFFECTS NAZIS

LONDON, May 1—American homefront workers who build the bombers learned today that planes of Lieut. Gen. Jimmie Doolittle's Eighth Air Force blasted German territory with more than 22,000 tons of bombs during April.

In a radio broadcast to the people back home who supply the material, Gen. Doolittle revealed that Eighth Air Force flyers also had accounted for 1,300 German planes—800 shot down in aerial battles and 500 destroyed on the ground.

Doolittle said: "This is substantially more than the entire German aircraft production for the month."

"In addition to the 1,300 we destroyed, a large number of planes were destroyed by the Russians, the RAF, and the Ninth, Twelfth, and Fifteenth American Air Forces. It is obvious that the German air force is being depleted coincident with the strategic Allied bombing operations."

American plane losses in April, over Europe, were 359 heavy bombers and 144 fighters.

Detailing the destruction wrought by American bombers, Doolittle added:

"Among the targets hit in Germany were 28 aircraft factories, and photographic reconnaissance indicates that six of these were almost demolished and 15 more were damaged to a point where immediate production was seriously delayed or stopped."

HUNS RECAPTURED

FORT SUMNER, N. M., May 1—Army officers in charge of the prisoner of war stockade at Fort Sumner revealed today the recapture of two young Germans who escaped last Wednesday. The prisoners, who were re-taken at Moberly, Mo., were identified as Rudolph Fruth and Peter Mueller.

OPA RELEASES 500,000 TIRES

Larger Production Makes Possible Big Hoist In Quota For May

WASHINGTON, May 1—The Office of Price Administration announced today that a half million more passenger tires and tubes will be made available this month to take care of the increased demand from "B" and "C" card motorists who have just been made eligible for them.

As result of larger production of the small-sized tires from synthetic rubber, the allocation of new passenger tires for the month of May has been set at one million, three hundred thousand compared to one million, fifty thousand last month. The May tube allocation also was raised from a total of 850,200 in April to 1,100,000.

At the same time, the OPA boosted the quota of tires and tubes for small-sized trucks and farm tractors and implements.

The agency also released a survey on the automobile supply situation showing that approximately 47,000 new 1942 model cars are held by dealers at the present time. The nation's stockpile at the outset of rationing in February, 1942, was about 532,000 new vehicles.

Officials said that the dwindling stock of new automobiles called for continued tight ration controls in order that some new cars may be made available as long as possible to take care of essential activities such as the police or medical services, or the FBI.

Rationing of new cars will have to be made tighter until a resumption (Continued on Page Two)

FOUR COPS OFF DUTY FAIL BIG COUPON THEFT

NEW YORK, May 1—Four suspicious policemen, off duty and on their way home from a communion breakfast, foiled a large theft of ration coupons from the Brooklyn Office of Price Administration.

The loot would have supplied the black market, where it presumably was heading, with tickets for 2,000 new tires, 100,000 gallons of gasoline, 4,500 pairs of shoes, 2,000 gallons of fuel oil, 20 certificates for new bicycles and 55 certificates for new automobiles. These items, it was estimated, would be worth $200,000.

The four patrolmen were riding home when they saw three men carrying burlap bags. Stopping to question them, the suspicious men fled, dropping the sacks.

One man arrested by police was said to be an expert safecracker who had been arrested many times and sent to Sing Sing for that very offense.

SIAMESE TWINS, BORN TO WIDOW, CUTE BLONDES

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa., May 1—The Siamese twins born yesterday to widowed Mrs. Mary Stierly, 24, of Audobon, Pa., appeared to be doing well today although the smaller one appeared to have poor blood circulation.

Weighing 10 pounds and 12 ounces together and joined at the pelvis, the twin girls were said by a nurse to be "cute" and blonde.

Dr. Elmer J. Gotwals, chief of the Phoenixville hospital, said the children would never talk and that they never could be separated. The smaller one, whom Dr. Gotwals said showed poor circulation, would cause the death of the other if it died first, the doctor said.

The mother already has a normal two-year-old daughter. The father was killed two months ago.

GROUND HAZE SAVES NAZIS FROM BOMBING

A U. S. FORTRESS STATION SOMEWHERE IN BRITAIN, May 1—Forts from this station which participated in daylight operations today against German military targets in Northern France encountered a heavy ground haze and most of the ships returned to base with their bomb loads.

Anti-aircraft fire was only moderate and there was no fighter opposition.

Despite the poor weather some bombardiers found the targets through cloud openings and dropped their missiles.

"The escort was beautifully spread out so as to give us plenty of protection," said Staff Sgt. Harland B. Paul of Portland, Ore. "The flak was not bad. All in all, I'd consider it a good run."

Staff Sgt. Harry Shirey, of Elwood City, Pa., said his ship did not encounter a single enemy fighter.

"What little flak I saw was way off our wing."

GEORGE MINGLE NEW CHIEF OF STATE PATROL

COLUMBUS, May 1—George Mingle today was named superintendent of the state highway patrol to succeed the late Lynn Black.

The appointment, effective today, was made by State Highway Director Hal G. Sours. Mingle has served as chief inspector of the patrol and has been with the patrol since it was organized.

BILL OF RIGHTS SET FOR HOUSE

Rankin Compromises On Unemployment Pay For Veterans

WASHINGTON, May 1—Rep. Rankin (D) Miss., chairman of the house World War veterans committee, declared today he had "compromised" his objectives to unemployment compensation for veterans and that agreement on the "G. I. bill of rights" was virtually complete.

Rankin's committee meets today following a week of intensive hearings to consider a final draft of the legislation and prepare it for submission to the house late today or tomorrow.

Members of the committee disclosed that the "principle" of readjusted payments for unemployed veterans of World War II has been "retained in the bill." Although this had yet to receive final approval, it represented a victory for servicemen's organizations which attacked Rankin for his opposition and accused him of delaying the measure.

Rankin had objected that the proposed payment of unemployment compensation for a maximum of one year penalized the industrious ex-servicemen who wanted work and found it. He indicated preference for an adjusted compensation to all vets.

"Except for modifications which go far toward improving the bill, the legislation is the same in principle as it was passed by the senate," one committee member said.

Emphasizing that some details remained to be ironed out, Rankin observed: "Our bill will be a compromise between the two proposals. I'm (Continued on Page Two)

FLOWER BOOSTS CRADLE-GRAVE INSURANCE PLAN

NEW YORK, May 1—Mayor F. H. LaGuardia handed his constituents a cradle-to-the-grave health insurance plan today for New Yorkers earning up to $5,000 per year.

The mayor said his plan was designed to aid the white collar worker, those families between the very rich and the very poor, both of which social classes "already get the best there is in medical care. The mayor said, 'It's the in-between group we're trying to reach.'"

According to LaGuardia's plan, at a cost of four percent of a man's income—half to be paid by the employer and half by the employee—full medical care will be provided for the whole family, including all children under 18.

Governor Of Puerto Rico Accused Of Assuming Role Of Dictator

"LIVING LIKE A KING"

7,000 Jobs Imaginary, Says Pagan In Scathing Denunciation

WASHINGTON, May 1—Rexford Guy Tugwell, governor of Puerto Rico and former New Deal "braintruster," was pictured today as "living like a king" on the historic island in a 300-year-old Spanish castle complete with 30 servants and eight automobiles.

This description came from Puerto Rico's congressional commissioner Bolivar Pagan who asserted the "beautiful castle" is about as large as the White House "and more comfortable."

Pagan's remarks were made in a prepared statement to reporters and a subsequent interview.

Tugwell's Puerto Rican home, Pagan declared, is valued at one and a half million dollars and was remodeled by the United States government at a cost of $500,000 shortly before the former New Deal policy man moved in.

"Tugwell has besides his palace—which was built in the days of the Spanish conquistadores—a mountain retreat and another summer house only 30 minutes' drive from San Juan," Pagan said.

Unpopular on Island

He labeled Tugwell as being so unpopular on the island that he travels with an armed guard unit composed of "two or three automobiles and some motorcycles."

The commissioner asserted that of the four leading political parties on the island, three are "openly fighting Tugwell and more than two-thirds of the total vote would be cast against him."

As for the palace, Pagan said, "it is over 300 years old and is a beautiful thing, overlooking the bay. It has 16 rooms for Tugwell, his wife and one child, the commissioner said."

"There the climate is wonderful and the palace itself is more comfortable than the White House and about as large," he added.

"We have a most scandalous situation in Puerto Rico," Pagan continued. "Seven thousand jobs under (Continued on Page Two)

YANK SECRET WEAPONS BEST, GENERAL SAYS

DAYTON, May 1—"The nation need not worry about the enemy's boasts or secret weapons because the United States has plenty of its own," Brig. Gen. Franklin O. Carroll told the annual convention of the Aviation Writers' Association today.

In support of his claim General Carroll revealed to civilians for the first time miniatures of tomorrow's air-war models—bombers of breath-taking size and fighters of grotesque design, a ship without a propeller and one without wings.

The writers were given their first close up glimpse of the jet propulsion plane built by the Bell Aircraft Corp., and powered with the General Electric Whittle engine; the B-29 super fortress, designed and built by Boeing and the new P-61 Black Widow night fighter plane, a product of Northrop Aircraft.

In two flights the jet-propelled plane demonstrated the unusual qualities of performance reported by Army Air Force Materiel Command pilots who have test flown it for many months.

LIMA MAYOR DIES

MISSISSIPPI AT RECORD HEIGHT

Father Of Waters Stands At Highest Flood Stage In 100 Years

ST. LOUIS, May 1—The Mississippi river stood at the highest flood stage in 100 years today at St. Louis. The river crested at 39.1 feet, two inches above the 99-year record of last year, but two feet below the all-time high of 1844.

More than 1,200,000 acres of land were under water and 6,250 families have been made homeless or otherwise affected.

The Illinois river presented a new threat today. Residents of the McGee creek levee district in Brown and Pike counties in Illinois were ordered to evacuate in a joint warning issued by Col. L. B. Feagin, district engineer of the U. S. Army engineers at St. Louis, and H. F. Keisker, manager of the mid-western office of the American Red Cross at St. Louis.

The statement warned that this levee district was in danger of failing or being overtopped by the flood waters. Red Cross workers from Meredosia, Ill., assisted with the evacuation of families. Four hundred troops from Camp Ellis, Ill., reported to help in fighting the fast rising floods.

Two levees on the Mississippi river burst yesterday. An estimated total of 26,700 acres was inundated by the larger of these breaks at Harrisonville, Ill., across the river from Crystal City, Mo.

Hurried evacuation was credited with saving the lives of 1,000 troops working in that area. The (Continued on Page Two)

BOB HOPE WINS SPECIAL AWARD FOR WAR WORK

ATHENS, Ga., May 1—Directors of the George Foster Peabody award for outstanding performance in the radio field made a special exception today in giving radio comic Bob Hope a special citation for his performances before the armed forces.

Edward Weeks, editor of the Atlantic Monthly and chairman of the Peabody board, and John E. Drewry, dean of journalism at the University of Georgia, told of Hope's special award.

"In recognition of his untiring zeal and the high level of entertainment of his camp tours in the United States and throughout the world," said the citation of Hope, adding "the joy and strengthened morale which he has given to the men and women of the armed forces can never be measured. The Peabody committee does not wish to overlook this superb contribution."

Soviet Airmen Carry Fight To Nazis In East As Armies Regroup

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, May 1—The War department announced today the sinking of an American ship by enemy action in Mediterranean water with a loss of 498 military personnel. No other details were made public.

By International News Service
German-occupied Europe shuddered under its 15th straight day of pre-invasion bombing today as powerful American bomber and fighter groups followed up strong RAF night assaults with daylight strikes against Nazi targets in France.

A force of possibly 1,000 Fortresses and Liberators, and supporting Mustang and Thunderbolt fighters, attacked Nazi targets. Bostons, Mitchells and Marauders also hammered targets in France.

The non-stop daylight operations got under way as British night raiders returned from heavy attacks on rail centers near Paris and Arras and an assault on a big enemy munitions dump near Mantes-la-Jolie, southwest of Paris.

The attack on the munitions depot resulted in multiple explosions and fires which could be seen for 100 miles.

RAF night bombers also struck at targets in western Germany and mined enemy waters.

A report from U. S. headquarters told of Boston and Mitchell bomber strikes against French railway targets to inaugurate the daylight attack. Spitfire fighters escorted bombers.

The concentration of planes over the English coast led villagers at one point to believe that the invasion had started when a bomber group hovered overhead awaiting its fighter escort.

In the Mediterranean area, Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson reported formidable night bombings to cripple the main German held ports of northern Italy in the wake of a shattering daylight blow by squadrons totalling possibly 1,500 bombers and fighters which struck vital rail yards.

Night-flying Wellingtons and Liberators battered Genoa, Leghorn and Monfalcone and the harbor of the naval base at La Spezia.

Between 500 and 750 heavy bombers accompanied by an equal force of escorting fighters smashed at German communications in Italy Sunday battering railway yards at Milan, Castel Maggiore, and Alessandria.

Continuing the harassment of communications, Allied airmen flying up to 1,750 sorties, all told in Italy struck at rail points and railroad bridges on the Rome-Florence main line.

Wellingtons and Liberators set fires on ships and shore installations at La Spezia, Leghorn and Genoa. Fortresses hit the Varese and Bresso aircraft plants building Macchi fighter planes.

Soviet airmen carried most of the fight to the Nazis on the eastern front while Red ground forces appeared to be regrouping for a continuation of their land smashes against German positions.

On the eastern front Russian soldiers were warned to hold their arms in full military preparedness and keep a sharp eye on their posts.

In the Southwest Pacific Japan's hold on the islands north of Australia was weakened by widespread heavy bomber raids which struck the Japs from Timor to Bougainville.

As far ranging bombers struck targets in British and Dutch New Guinea, victorious American ground troops extended their perimeter from captured Hollandia and took Tami airdrome, 12 miles east of Humboldt bay.

Nearly 150 ton of bombs struck scattered targets along the north coast of New Guinea. Gun positions were silenced, buildings and vehicles destroyed and troop barges sunk in these attacks.

was given in the inaugural broadcast of the new American broadcasting station in Europe launching a series of pre-invasion broadcasts.

An indication of the tension-gripping Nazi authorities in France was seen in a Geneva dispatch to the London Daily Express stating that "German plan number one" against invasion now has been put in force in France. All German troops were ordered never to be without their rifles and to fire instantly.

From Stockholm came word, according to the express, that some Swedes believe the invasion may begin either on Tuesday or on the 17th of May. The dispatch failed to mention why comment involved these two dates. The Swedes were said to feel that Denmark would play a leading role and that Norway would be involved in diversionary operations.

Robert E. Sherwood, director of the U. S. Office of War Information's overseas operations, made the first address over the new American broadcasting station in Europe which is to play a large part in the increased war of nerves and provide anti-Nazi patriots with full information.

Sherwood promised that the Allied transmitters would bring the subjugated peoples "tremendous news" this year and hinted that when the grand-scale invasion comes it will be from both the west and the south.

In connection with the statement that the hour of liberation is "not far distant," Sherwood said:

"And the day is not far distant when your own radio stations will be free to tell you the truth instead of the tremendous lies of the Nazi collaborators and quislings."

He said that the Germans were soon to learn "what overwhelming force can be."

BETTER TEACHERS

STRINGFELLOW Barr, president of St. Johns College, wants to see standards of general education greatly raised. He would like to have every young American given a college education. It wouldn't hurt a carpenter, he thinks, to have a knowledge of architecture, nor a plumber to be able to enjoy great books or the fine arts.

But there is a great lack of good teachers. In Ohio, for example, 10,000 teachers have left their jobs since Pearl Harbor and one-tenth of these have not been replaced at all. The other 9,000 are new, reinforced to some extent by 4,500 substitute teachers who are undertrained or substandard.

There is need to restore the dignity of the teacher in the eyes of students and parents. Higher pay would help, too, by giving an incentive to fine young people to enter the profession and stay in it. City school pay teachers somewhere near adequate salaries, but rural schools are strangely retrograde. The farmer has his living on the farm and handles little cash. He forgets, in thinking of money for the teacher, that her education has been expensive, her present living likewise.

Men in the services are reported as raring for education, for themselves or their children, better than anything they have previously known. Perhaps they will be able to broaden and intensify future learning by their demand.

WAR STRIKES

THE industrial strikes in this country, although usually not of long duration, are a continual drag on possible production. While it is true that the total output is higher than ever before, because there are so many mills and factories engaged, it would be far greater if the employees would work more steadily. And the more production, the sooner the war will end. The latter fact should be expressed in human terms.

"Some life is endangered by every idle hour," says Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio. "The time has come to support the millions of workers who want to work, and to quit coddling selfish labor leaders for the sake of votes which they say they can deliver in an election. The strikes irreparably injure labor in the eyes of the public, and will cause our soldiers to return from the battle fronts with a distorted opinion of the loyalty of labor in this country."

It is a true statement. The main cause of the lost production seems to be not the workmen themselves, but the meddling of unwise leaders.

Eire is too easily turned to ire.

Strong Senate Opposition ..... Looks to Be Quizzed Soon
To House Ratification Move ..... By Senate Oil Committee

Special to Central Press
WASHINGTON—Considerable Senate opposition is developing over a plan to have the peace treaty approved by a majority vote of both houses of Congress, instead of the Senate's two-thirds vote, as required by the Constitution.
Representative Sol Bloom (D.) of New York, arch-proponent of the plan, said that some senators are opposed to the House musing in on a traditional Senate prerogative—the ratification of treaties.
Bloom, who heads the major House foreign affairs committee, good-naturedly chided his Upper House colleagues and said that too many senators who move up from the Lower House forget their days of legislative rough-and-tumble in the crowded House.
Informed of Bloom's blast, Texas' tall, dapper Tom Connally, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, said, "Aw, that's just the House cutting up." But Bloom, dissatisfied, replied:
"When these fellows move over from the House to the Senate, and get that special underground railway and their private elevators, why you just can't touch 'em."
Bloom referred to Connally's many years of service in the House and to the special subway monorail which shuttles from the Capitol to the Senate Office building. House members must walk to their two office buildings.
Despite Connally's avowed opposition, however, Bloom is willing to wager he will have his way about the peace agreement, whatever the price.
SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR HAROLD L. ICKES is due for one of the most relentless grillings of his stormy career when he appears about May 1 before the new Senate committee investigating

by DREW PEARSON

ACHIEVE PEACE

WASHINGTON—Miracles don't often happen in labor relations, but peace and love now reign between the tough maritime workers and the ship lines.

Though the main factor is a common desire to pull together for the war, one factor has been regular meetings between all union chiefs and all ship-line executives in the Maritime Commission in Washington. There, both sides lay their cards on the table and tell what they think of each other.

Last week, husky, hard-boiled Joe Curran, head of the National Maritime Union, actually went so far as to invite ship-operator representatives into his union hiring halls to assist in the shipping assignments of seamen. Ship operators almost fell off their chairs when Curran made this astounding suggestion.

"For seven years," he admitted, "I have fought to keep the companies out of the hiring halls. But now I'm inviting them in so we can work together for the war."

"That," he chuckled, "is what a war will do."

However, Curran coupled his olive branch with an attack on one operator—Standard Oil—for hoarding manpower. He charged that Standard Oil operated a "private pool" of seamen for its own tankers. These extra seamen, he said, were being kept ashore and used in other jobs, even though they had been given draft deferments as essential seamen supposed to be at sea. By this process, Curran claimed, Standard attempts to build up a backlog of non-union seamen and thus have enough in reserve to escape using union men.

GOVERNMENT ACTION DEMANDED

"My union won't put up with idle workers," the NMU leader declared. "My union prohibits members from staying on shore longer than two days for each week at sea, or a maximum of 30 days at any one time. The Government should enforce the same rule throughout the industry."

"Manpower politics should be administered without discrimination," spoke up E. A. Jimison, an official of the Lykes Bros. Steamship Co. of New Orleans and New York. "Everybody should be treated alike in wartime and made to toe the mark."

War Shipping Administration officials replied that they had investigated Standard Oil's "beaching" of workers, presumably to build up a backlog of non-union employees, but said they doubted that WSA had authority to dictate the company's hiring methods.

"Well, let's cut out the monkey business," exploded Curran. "This war is everybody's responsibility, and manpower is our biggest bottleneck. Are you going to let this sort of thing go on?"

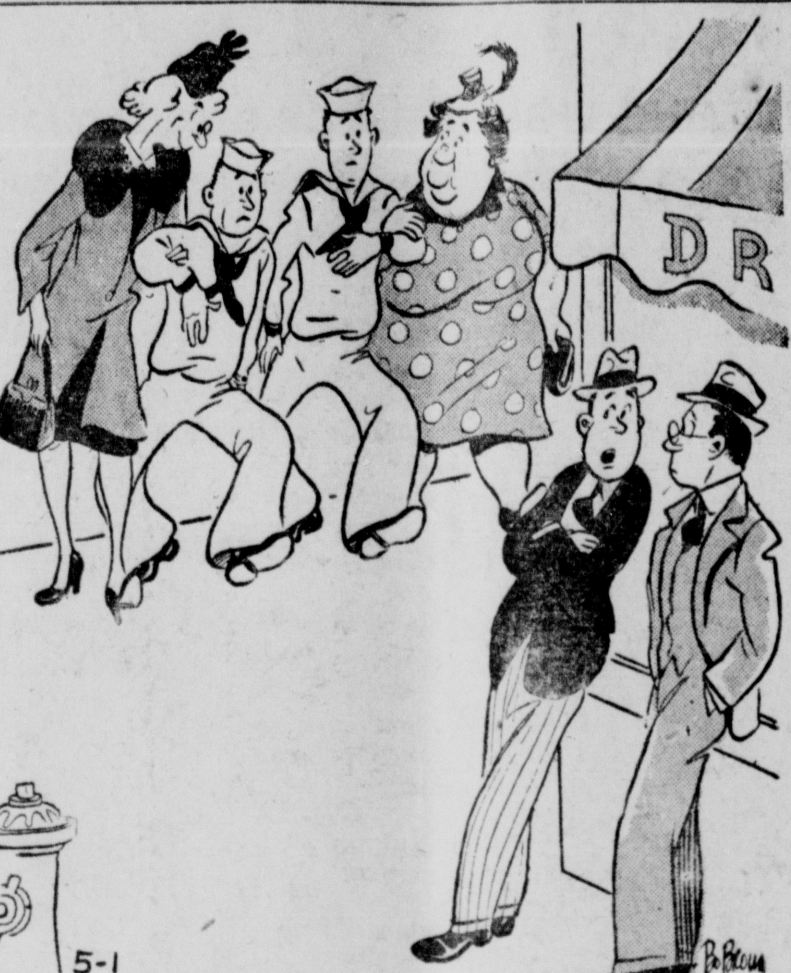

"There's one thing we can do," declared Marshall Dimock, labor assistant to WSA deputy administrator E. M. Macaulay. "We can see to it that the Selective Service System cancels the deferments of seamen who don't work at their occupation. If Standard Oil persists in beaching its maritime workers, a lot of them are going to wake up in the armed forces."

TOO MUCH RANKIN

Ever since the soldiers' vote bill debate, Republican Congressmen have suffered from the charge that they were being dictated to by raucous Representative Rankin of Mississippi. This has become more

Local Treatments Relieve Lumbago

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.
THAT VERY successful practitioner and long time friend of mine, Dr. Isaac Ritz, whom I meet nearly every noon at Grogan's, is a little miffed at me on account of what I said a week or so ago about lumbago. He said I spoke of it as if it were a minor ailment. He says the fact that lumbago allows you to get up and about your business and that it doesn't kill you outright are its greatest disadvantages. If death would end the agony it would be bearable. I think I forget to mention he is in the throes of an attack himself in his own person.
Dr. Ritz is of the opinion that lumbago is an epidemic infectious disease, probably caused by a virus. And there is a great deal to support this view. It certainly sweeps over communities in epidemic form, usually in the spring. It is evidenced in its early stages by a fever, or a little headache, loss of appetite and all the prodromal symptoms of an infectious state.

May Be Contagious

To show its contagiousness, Dr. Ritz had an instance in his own practice of a married couple. The wife went to the Red Cross and associated with two of her sister workers who had lumbago. She came down with it 24 hours later and 24 hours after that her husband, who had been in perfect health, came down with an attack of pain in the back which put him to bed. Not only in my own home town where I know of 17 cases in the last few weeks, but my spy system has unearthed semblances of an epidemic in St. Louis, Chicago and Dallas this spring.
There is no reason why a virus should not get into the body through the digestive or respiratory systems and because it has an affinity for the lumbar muscles light there and cause trouble any more than there is why a virus, such as infantile paralysis, should enter by the same portals and light only in the nerve cells of the anterior horn of the spinal cord; it argues some kind of an affinity, chemical or biological, and there could be some such between the lumbar muscles and some other virus.
A similar analogy would apply to shingles: here it is now assumed in the best medical circles a virus is the cause; it enters the body and circulating in the blood picks out only the ganglia of one or more sensory nerves.
Lumbago is so named because it lights in the lumbar muscles. These are the very heavy and strong groups of muscles in the back, which attach to the spine and are involved in nearly every movement made by the body. That's why it hurts so much. You can't even roll over in bed without having the sore muscles creak and cry out.

Non-medical Remedies

As to treatment, every patient learns sooner or later, usually later, that time is the surest remedy. To the fellow who has just had lumbago a few days this seems very cynical, but to the graduate of six weeks standing it has at least the advantages of truth. There are innumerable drugs which are used for relief—the salicylates—such as aspirin—have always been used for rheumatism.
Dr. Ritz says the latest is to give a solution of calcium gluconate to the victim. The directions say to take it every other day, but the doctor took one dose and it heated him up so he stopped at that; he preferred the disease to the remedy. He said he had hot flashes for 24 hours. But he's sort of cranky and others might not react that way.
To my mind this is the ideal condition for non-medical remedies. Grease the back every night with an ointment with a little camphor in it, and lie down on your face and have Mama put a flannel on top of it, and run an iron—just as hot as you can stand—over the sore places. And massage—here is the ideal spot for massage. If you can get a graduate of the Kellberg Institute of Stockholm he or she will take the kinks out of you.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

C. R.:—What causes curvature of the spine? Can it be the result of infantile paralysis? Are there any exercises to cure it or ways to effect a cure?
Answer: Curvature of the spine comes from bad posture, sitting in wrong positions at school desks, etc. If infantile paralysis affects the spinal muscles the result may be a curvature of the spine and this is not uncommon. It can be corrected by exercises and orthopedic apparatus.

For Monday, May 1
MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a particularly active, progressive and pleasant day, with much stirring in both business and personal interests. Although the accent seems to be on the romantic, sentimental, social or domestic vocations or avocations, yet there is a solidifying and stabilizing force making for endurance and security in whatever direction the objectives may lie.
Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which the affairs may be happily placed upon a firm, enduring and secure basis, with accumulations and investments sound and sensible, with little risk. The emphasis however, is on domestic, social and affectional affairs and functions, with romance, good luck and long promise of happiness.
A child born on this day may have many artistic, social and domestic abilities and graces, and should enjoy a life of happiness and usefulness as well, with sound and deep-rooted feelings and thoughts.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE
With a sudden gust of temper, Irina's small hand struck the chair. "I don't know who is worse—you or Rodney! He wants some cloud-draped creature to idealize; you talk solemnly about a sweet, platonic sister, and neither of you ever thinks in terms of a flesh-and-blood woman."
Surprised at the unexpected outburst, Colin asked, "What should I do? Make love to every woman I meet?"
"Every pretty one. Why not? And Blair's pretty."
"So are you. Do you want me to take you literally?"
Irina's long, green eyes were on him, then again she bent over her sewing. "If I told you," she answered, "you might not let me go to Trappers Lake tomorrow."
It was a cloudy, windy tomorrow, with the sun still low in the east when Irina and Colin swung up the Nelson to the sound of their chugging motor. Mists were drifting in from the north, and a new chill in the air told of winter's hand steadily closing. The river itself was fringed with ice, and only the swifter waters of the channel remained open.
By noon the mist had turned to a penetrating drizzle, and before lunch was over, hail began pattering against the spruce thicket where they sat around a little fire.
Colin looked toward the north. "Freeze-up is on the way. This will be our last trip together."
She held her hands out to the fire. "I'll miss them," she said, and the meal was a silent one.
By mid-afternoon Colin had arranged for the delivery of two thousand whitefish to feed his dog team. One other purchase he made—a gift to Irina—a tiny two-month-old huskie, tailless, and looking more like a yellow powder puff than anything alive. Colin bought the pup with a secret conviction that Irina might be less lonely, but he pictured with some trepidation what Ma Corrigan would say to the addition of a huskie pup to her immaculately kept kennel.
As they turned back toward Colin's cabin, the dog lay curled in her lap, looking up at her with adoring eyes, while she held a canine blanket over him to keep him dry.
Colin kept close to the lee of every sheltering island, to break the force of the cutting wind, but in spite of her thick jacket Irina was shivering. An hour later he pointed to white water ahead; raising the propeller of the outboard motor from the water, he took up a paddle.
"We'll save a good half hour by shooting those rapids," he told her. "Sit farther back in the canoe."
He had shot that stretch of water many times before; but when the grip of the quickened current seized the boat, Colin realized the water level was lower than in past years, and he felt the keel grate over an unseen rock.
Too late to turn back now. Bending on the paddle, Colin barely grazed a black, jagged boulder that jutted up at them from the swirling stream. Violently the canoe veered to the left, while Irina clutched both gunwales with her hands.
For a second the little boat seemed to hesitate, then a rush of water lifted it and literally threw it forward into the foaming cauldron just ahead. There, where the stream swirled between sheer granite banks, Colin knew the real test lay.
Not long to wait. Already they were gathering speed, racing between ever-narrowing banks, and Colin's shoulder muscles creaked as he tried desperately to hold the crazily pitching boat in mid-stream. Spray stung his eyes, and the roar of tons on tons of plunging waters thundered in his ears.
Twice the keel grated on rocks, trembled, and swung free. But now they were almost clear—ahead Colin saw the quiet sheen of calm water. Once more he bent back on the paddle, and with the crack of a pistol shot it broke.
He reached for the other paddle—too late. A cross wave caught the bow, whirled it abreast the stream, and the next minute they were struggling in the river.
Gasping at the ice-cold touch, Colin fought his way to the surface and, seizing Irina by the shoulder, let the current sweep them down beyond the rocks. There, in a few strokes, he reached the quiet of backwaters, and, with Irina in his arms, climbed up on the bank.
Still clutching the canine blanket, she lay motionless, and anxiously he asked, "Are you hurt?"
Irina shook her head, then, sinking down upon her knees, opened the blanket: from its fold a very bedraggled, frightened pup looked up at her.
"He's all right," she murmured, and began wiping the water from his fur.
Fifty feet below them their canoe was floating in the backwash, and Colin waded out through the fringe of ice to pull it ashore. The blanket that had been thrust high up in the bow was still comparatively dry; he threw it on the bank and turned the canoe over to empty out the water.

Miss Helen Spindler
And Robert Farley Wed

Ceremony Read
At Cathedral
In Columbus

Miss Helen Spindler, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Spindler of Ashville, became the bride of Robert Farley, son of Mrs. C. A. Farley, 280 Kelton avenue, Columbus, at a small wedding Saturday in St. Joseph's Cathedral of that city. The Rev. Fr. Wines chanted the nuptial mass at 9:30 a. m.

For her wedding, Miss Spindler chose a smart Spring suit of aqua and used matching accessories. She carried a white prayer book with a gardenia on the cover.

Mrs. Gene Butler served as matron of honor and wore a navy blue frock with matching accessories. A corsage of gardenias was pinned at her shoulder. Mr. Butler was best man for Mr. Farley.

A small wedding breakfast for the bridal party was served at the Seneca hotel immediately following the service.

The bride is a graduate of Ashville-Harrison high school and of Miami university, Oxford. She has been employed at the Columbus Army Service Forces Depot. Mr. Farley, a graduate of Ohio State university, is employed by the Columbia Engineering Corporation of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. George Welker of South Court street were guests at the morning wedding.

VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Preparing Victory Seedlings for Transplanting

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

TRANSPLANTING does give Victory seedlings a setback in top growth, but it helps to make a better root system which, of course, is all important for future development. Ideal plants for setting out in the Victory garden are those having a compact clump of fibrous roots and a short but sturdy top growth.

The day before Victory seedlings are transplanted from one flat to another they should be watered in order that their stems may be filled with enough moisture to enable them to withstand the shock of transplanting. This watering will also help to make the soil cling to the roots of the plants as they are being moved.

As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, an ordinary table fork can be used to lift each tiny plant. Care must be taken not to break the small feeding roots or tender stems. In transplanting set the plants a little deeper than they were in the first flat.

The Garden-Graph also shows the beneficial effects of transplanting on a Victory seedling, as well as the weak, stringy appearance of a seedling which has been allowed to grow with transplanting.

Church Attendance
Necessity Explained

(Editor's Note—Circleville's Kiwanis club is seeking to increase church and Sunday school attendance in the county, believing that such an accomplishment would go a long way toward solving the juvenile delinquency problem. The club has asked ministers of the county to present arguments for church attendance and the first of this series appears below.)

BY THE REV. ROSS HAYSLIP

It is the general opinion among the leaders of America's action in the world scene that we are in need of a spiritual awakening. Editorials, speeches and common conversation all point to this fact. A nation that loses sight of the spiritual and sinks itself into the morass of materialism likewise finds itself falling from democracy and freedom into the chains of totalitarian bondage. Self-made gods demand worship, and men who worship gods of their own creation soon are led into paths of selfish introspection. Leaders both secular and religious are awakening to this fact and are seeking to warn us of its danger.

A recent magazine photograph shows a collection of articles taken from the pockets of a soldier lost in action. Among these is a diary. Scrawled in an awkward hand on the pages of the diary are these significant words:

"People don't think much about religion nowadays. But we need a voice from on High, brother, and I don't mean maybe. This thing has got out of human ability to run. I'm no religious fanatic. But we are in a situation where something better than human brains has got to give us advice."

This soldier has voiced a universal sentiment. In winning the war and securing a just peace we must have help from a Higher Source. The Church School points the way to the securing of such assistance. No department of the church exerts a wider influence over the community than does the Church School. It serves as an instrument of instruction in things spiritual. It is here that a war-weary care-ridden humanity can withdraw into the peaceful security of contact with the Higher Source. Arranged for groups of all ages, adults and children alike can find in it avenues of both help and service.

The power of influence upon the minds of our youth is amazing. Too many Pied Pipers have been at large in our world. We need to touch youth with this spiritual awakening or our efforts will be worthless. The Sunday morning period of worship and study can touch them. It can give them a period of experience that will serve as an anchor in the emotional storms of life.

The principles upon which our nation is founded are wholly in accord with the teachings of our church schools. There is no stronger foundation upon which a nation may build than a firm faith in God and a belief in the principles of the Bible. In this day of uncertainty and stress let us cooperate in this spiritual awakening.

By a renewed interest in the Sunday School and a punctual attendance to the same we can make a vital contribution to our country's effort to come through the storm untouched by the "foes that assail." This renewed interest must come from parents and children alike. It must be motivated by a desire to satisfy the longings of the personality for something from on High. The Church School points the way to a spiritual awakening. The challenge is ours to follow its course.

BIRDIES MOVE WITHIN HALF GAME OF TOP

By International News Service
 The Columbus Red Birds today found themselves within one-half game of first place in the Association pennant race after taking a double bill from the Indianapolis Indians yesterday 8 to 7 and 11 to 6.

Approximately 4,958 spectators watched the Birds capitalize on the wildness of Woody Rich and Harry Kelley. George Stumpf was batting star of the day. He made good four hits, including three two-baggers in six trips to the plate. Ken Burkhardt opened on the mound for the Columbus team but was relieved by Red Barrett.

In the second game Rookie Wes Cunningham was given a chance to prove his pitching ability when ordered to relieve John Herr in the third. This he proceeded to do allowing only three of the Indians' five hits. In tonight's final contest John Hutchings will take the mound for the Indians opposing John Podgajny.

Meanwhile at Toledo the Mud Hens and the Louisville Colonels were breaking even on a twin bill. The Colonels taking the first with a 6 to 4 score but yielding the second 6 to 2. The visitors staged a power uprising in the ninth behind the hurling of Brock and Deutsch to defeat Young Cliff Fannin. The Hens retaliated in the ninth with Harry Kimbrell allowing only eight scattered hits. Bud Byers was the losing Louisville pitcher. Tonight the visitors will pit Patton against Whitehead.

Two other twin bills, Milwaukee versus Minneapolis at the latter city and Kansas City at St. Paul were postponed.

BIRDIES MOVE WITHIN HALF GAME OF TOP

By International News Service

The Columbus Red Birds today found themselves within one-half game of first place in the Association pennant race after taking a double bill from the Indianapolis Indians yesterday 8 to 7 and 11 to 6.

Approximately 4,958 spectators watched the Birds capitalize on the wildness of Woody Rich and Harry Kelley. George Stumpf was batting star of the day. He made good four hits, including three two baggers in six trips to the plate. Ken Burkhardt opened on the mound for the Columbus team but was relieved by Red Barrett.

In the second game Rookie Wes Cunningham was given a chance to prove his pitching ability when ordered to relieve John Herr in the third. This he proceeded to do allowing only three of the Indians' five hits. In tonight's final contest John Hutchings will take the mound for the Indians opposing John Podgajny.

Meanwhile at Toledo the Mud Hens and the Louisville Colonels were breaking even on a twin bill, the Colonels taking the first with a 6 to 4 score but yielding the second 6 to 2. The visitors staged a power uprising in the ninth behind the hurling of Brock and Deutsch to defeat Young Cliff Fannin. The Hens retaliated in the nightcap with Harry Kimberlin allowing only eight scattered hits. Bud Byers was the losing Louisville pitcher. Tonight the visitors will pit Patton against Whitehead.

Two other twin bills, Milwaukee versus Minneapolis at the latter city and Kansas City at St. Paul were postponed.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

SIMPLE PLAYS VITAL

NO AMOUNT of skill with the complex and fancy plays can ever make up for failure to use the simple ones properly. Many more points are swung, either favorably or unfavorably, by the way ordinary plain devices are employed than by the various types coups, end-plays and squeezes. One of the most important of these is the play called "splitting honors." There are times when this should be done, but in a case of doubt the best action is that which will pay dividends the majority of the time.

THREE TO GO

Allan Jones has just three more movies to go before he can devote all his time to radio. The singing star is committed to Universal Pictures for a trio of films which he can make any time he wishes. After that, it is kilocycles through and through, says Allan Jones, who likes radio the most of all the entertainment fields, will sandwich the movies in between his Thursday afternoon "Broadway Matinee" and his Wednesday night show. Quite a busy schedule!

SCARE OF LIFETIME

Irina Baronova had the scare of a lifetime. She read the headline "Allied Fleet Blasts Sumatra" and thought they were referring to Frankie!

PLENTY DEGREES

A beautiful blonde was asked her name and she replied: "June Knight, MD-DD-LLD." "What," came the next query, "you mean you're a Doctor of Medicine, a Doctor of Divinity and a Doctor of Laws?" "Oh no, I'm none of those," retorted June. "That's for 'Mairty doats and doazy doats and little lambey divy!'"

GUESS WHO

Can you name this crackpot comedienne before reaching her name at the end? Born in Kansas City, many, many years ago, she started acting in church socials. Joined a touring stock at 17 and married Grant Simpson, one of the actors. They played vaudeville successfully and then moved over to musical comedy. In 1920, she starred with Lew Fields in "Poor Little Ritz Girl," Rodgers and Hart's second show. A series of other musicals, including the Ziegfeld Follies, followed. In 1933 made her radio debut as co-star of a variety show with Gertrude Nielsen and Isham Jones. Has been in radio ever since, except for occasional movie shorts. After Marie Dressler died, movie moguls wanted her to assume the great Marie's place, but she turned down the opportunity. Has a delightfully rasping voice. Is heard every Friday night on "It Pays To Be Ignorant." Her name? ... Lulu McConnell.

CRIME DOCTOR

Although crime does pay Max Marcin well, referring, of course, ton in one hand, and drop them by means of the A and K, but the odds were heavily against that. Another was to try to drop a singleton honor in the hand of one defender and then finesse against the remaining honor in the hand of his partner. The third try was to play them as both being in the same hand, guarded, but counting on their holder refusing to spit his honors. South decided to try this last method, first because East had shown two aces and West might hold any other outstanding honors, and second because West was none too sound a player.

So South led his club 5. West played the 6 because he had heard about "second hand low," the old Whist maxim. The 8 was played from dummy and won. Now the contract was safe. If West had put his club J on the 5, the setting trick would have been assured.

"Tomorrow's Problem"

7 5 4 2

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North East South West
Pass Pass 1 Pass
2 Pass 2 Pass
3 Pass 4 Pass

It took the defenders no time at all to collect their "book" of three tricks on this rubber bridge hand, with two in diamonds and the spade A. East then laid down the diamond A to drop the K, and South ruffed it. Three high trumps settled the outstanding ones, and South's only remaining problem was avoidance of a loser in clubs. There were several ways to seek this break. One was to try to find the queen and jack as a double-he obliged: "I was once shipwrecked off the coast of Africa," he ribbed. "And there I came across a tribe of wild women who had no tongues." Exclaimed the women: "Mercy! Couldn't they talk?" "That," snapped Borge, "was what made them wild!"

Allan Jones has just three more movies to go before he can devote all his time to radio. The singing star is committed to Universal Pictures for a trio of films which he can make any time he wishes.
After that, it is kilocycles through and through, says Allan Jones, who likes radio the most of all the entertainment fields, will send him the movies in between his Thursday afternoon "Broadway Matinee" and his Wednesday night show. Quite a busy schedule!

to musical comedy. In 1920, she starred with Lew Fields in "Poor Little Ritz Girl." Rodgers and Hart's second show. A series of other musicals, including the Zieg-

SIMPLE PLAYS VITAL
NO AMOUNT of skill with the complex and fancy plays can ever make up for failure to use the simple ones properly. Many more points are swung, either favorably or unfavorably, by the way ordinary plain devices are employed than by the various types coups, end-plays and squeezes.
One of the most important of these is the play called "splitting honors." There are times when this should be done, but in a case of doubt the best action is that which will pay dividends the majority of the time.

So South led his club 5. West played the 6 because he had heard about "second hand low," the old Whist maxim. The 8 was played from dummy and won. Now the contract was safe. If West had put his club 3 on the 5, the setting trick would have been assured.

It took the defenders no time at all to collect their "book" of three tricks on this rubber bridge hand, with two in diamonds and the spade A. East then laid down the diamond A to drop the K, and South ruffed it. Three high trumps settled the outstanding ones, and South's only remaining problem was avoidance of a loser in clubs.
There were several ways to seek this break. One was to try to find the queen and jack as a doubleton in one hand, and drop them by means of the A and K, but the odds were heavily against that.

Another was to try to drop a singleton honor in the hand of one defender and then finesse against the remaining honor in the hand of his partner. The third try was to play them as both being in the same hand, guarded, but counting on their holder refusing to spit his honors. South decided to try this last method, first because East had shown two aces and West might hold any other outstanding honors, and second because West was none too sound a player.

What error might a careless declarer make on this deal to cause defeat of his 5-Spade contract by one more trick than necessary after he ruffs the second diamond?

Andy Padova, maestro of the

At present the city is served by only one line running from the power plant which is across the river from the city. In the event of a break in this line, and experts regard this as an ever-present possibility, the city would be without water. Installation of a second main across the river would be an expensive process, but some members of council say that a large storage tank could be installed in the south part of the city and would provide enough water to meet any emergency.

The city of Circleville has offered $450,000 for the local water plant and the bid will be considered at a meeting of the Ohio Service Co. officials in Chicago next week. The figure was set by engineers employed by the city and is said to be so fair that the water company must give it serious consideration. In the event of agreement money for the purchase will be advanced by a bonding company and the loan will be repaid out of water plant profits alone. None of the obligation will attach to city property other than the water plant, and taxes will not be affected.

Councilmen have called attention to the fact that the city has everything to gain by the deal and nothing to lose. Engineers who surveyed the local plant and its underground installations reported that it is in excellent condition and well worth the money the city is offering.

were dumped promiscuously into it to make all facilities ultra-modern. Everything was to be electrically operated, including five large open hearth furnaces and eighteen smaller, heat-treating furnaces. They set the Government back $8,000,000.

More than $10,000,000 was spent for building construction. Only about half of the new buildings are now occupied by the private spring manufacturer, and these had to be remodeled at an additional cost of $382,000 when the War department decided to abandon the plant.

All this had significant repercussion the other day in the House of Representatives when Congressman Clare Hoffman of Michigan, hoisest of all Republicans, rose to defend himself against the book, "Under Cover".

While he spoke, Rankin kept jumping up and down on the Democratic side of the aisle, trying to advise Hoffman on how to proceed. Finally, Republican Hoffman exploded:

Now, for some unexplained reason, the Army Ordnance Department has abandoned it except for a few buildings which have been turned over to a manufacturer of steel springs.

ASHVILLE

Noan E. Murphy, former Ashville commercial teacher and now teacher of typing and shorthand at Westerville, was a business visitor in Ashville Saturday. Mr. Murphy was a visitor in Washington, D. C. most of the week. He reported being in the Pentagon, the world's largest building where some 25,000 people work, and numerous other nationally famous buildings. "Murphy" retains his usual keen interest in the Ashville school and community affairs.

A fair-sized crowd enjoyed the movie shown in the school auditorium Friday evening, The "Hill Billy Band", composed of Luther Knox, Lee Nicholson, DuWayne Shook and Harold Partee, entertained with their music. Proceeds from the show will be added to

"FOAMITE" HALTS FATE OF FLYING Fortress

THIS IS NOT A SNOWSTORM but a Flying Fortress which has just been saved from a flaming death by "foamite," a chemical sprayed by a USAAF fire-fighting crash crew at a U. S. Army Eighth Air Force bomber station in England. The "Fort" was hit during a mission over a Nazi fighter airfield. The pilot, Lieut. Bernard T. Kuhlmeier of Fort Madison, Ia., brought the burning plane back to its base. This is an official United States Army Air Forces photograph. (International) were dumped promiscuously into it to make all facilities ultra-modern. Everything was to be electrically operated, including five large open hearth furnaces and eighteen smaller, heat-treating furnaces. They set the Government back $8,000,000.

More than $10,000,000 was spent for building construction. Only about half of the new buildings are now occupied by the private spring manufacturer, and these had to be remodeled at an additional cost of $382,000 when the War department decided to abandon the plant.

The only individual who has bestirred himself is young GOP Congressman Calvin Johnson of Illinois. Johnson is trying to interest the Navy department in using the abandoned plant to produce turrets for ships.
